

Algorithmic recommendation and attention in short video use

Results: daily short video use above 2 hours was associated with lower sustained attention scores.

Conclusion: recommendation intensity moderates the effect.